Safety Differently

A New View of Safety Excellence

Tired of seeing your safety programs stagnate? This session will provide a new perspective on safety excellence based on Safety Differently. This is not a silver bullet or another flavor of the month. Safety Differently aligns with the goals of the organization providing new solutions to old safety problems.

Ron Gantt

Current safety management approaches are based on outdated models of organizational management and human performance, some over 100 years old. No wonder while the world changes ever more rapidly, the safety profession is seeing diminishing returns for our efforts. Yet, we continue to press ahead, doing what we've always done, and getting what we've always gotten.

This session will introduce a new model of safety management – Safety Differently. Based on decades of research and practice in high risk industries, Safety Differently provides a new way to approach safety problems and a new set of tools for the safety professional.

Ron Gantt is Vice President and Principal Consultant for SCM Safety, a safety management consulting and training firm located in San Ramon, CA. He has 16 years experience in safety management in industries such as construction, utilities, and petrochemical, as well as others. Ron has a masters degree in advanced safety engineering and management, as well as undergraduate degrees in psychology and occupational safety and health. He is currently a PhD student at University of Alabama at Birmingham in Interdisciplinary Engineering. He is a Certified Safety Professional, a Certified Environmental, Safety and Health Trainer, and an Associate in Risk Management. Ron is also co-editor and contributor at SafetyDifferently.com.
